You may be surprised to discover how different a Recreational Vehicle insurance policy is from a traditional auto policy. If you don't have a specialty Recreational Vehicle policy, you most likely have some major gaps in your insurance coverage. Recreational Vehicle vs. Auto Insurance Think about it. Your Recreational Vehicle is so much more than a regular car. You need more (and different) insurance to cover the unique scenarios that may arise when you own and operate a Recreational Vehicle. If you insure your Recreational Vehicle through a standard auto policy, a seemingly simple loss like damage out on the road, or if someone is injured near your Recreational Vehicle at a campsite, could cost you thousands if you need to make a claim. When you insure your Recreational Vehicle on its own policy, you'll know you are covered for a wide range of possibilities.
